Your paper should be typed, double-spaced, grammar/spell checked, stapled and proofread prior to giving it to your instructor. It should be written at a college level and show detailed evidence of thoughtful reflection on the classroom presentation. Papers not meeting all of these requirements will be returned to you and you will receive no credit. Returned papers can not be rewritten.

These papers will be graded on a pass/fail basis. You will need four "P"s (pass) on reaction papers to successfully complete the class. You may submit as many reaction papers as you want until you have received your four "Ps".

For each question, type the question, including the number of the question, and underline it. Then type your answer.

1. What was your personal reaction (emotional and thoughts) about what the speaker had to say.
2. What did you learn from this speaker that you didn't know before the presentation?
3. What issues/questions do you still have after listening to the speaker?
4. Relate at least three specific terms/concepts, (typed out and underlined) from the class study guides to the speaker's content. You may use any study guides you have received throughout the semester.
5. Explain why you think the presentation was or was not a good use of your personal and/or class time?
6. Any other comments

Due dates for the papers will be announced in class. You may submit your paper prior to that date, or via e-mail. E-mailed papers must be in WORD format. If it is submitted in any other format, it will not be accepted.
